HOW THIS PLACE WORKS

Connecticut wants municipal zoning before the state license. Connecticut DCP licenses cottage food operators, and local zoning approval comes first. File with the town or city on your address, then DCP. A county name here is only the map.

Zoning / home occupation

Yes (municipal zoning approval required before applying for CT DCP license). Connecticut has NO county government — counties are geographic only. All zoning is administered by the 23 municipalities in Fairfield County (Bridgeport, Stamford, Greenwich, Norwalk, Danbury, etc.). Each municipality must be contacted individually. Operators must obtain written confirmation of local zoning compliance and keep it on file for DCP. Some Fairfield County municipalities have added 'Cottage Food Operator' as a listed Customary Home Occupation requiring a Home Occupation permit from the local Zoning Enforcement Officer.

Health

Yes (pre-licensure home inspection by CT DCP required). Required before receiving annual cottage food license; DCP commissioner may also inspect at any time

Business license

Varies by municipality within Fairfield County; no county-level business license exists

Pickup / delivery

Direct-to-consumer only; local delivery only for online orders; no mail-order shipping; sales at farmers markets, events, roadside stands, or at home

If you rent a commissary kitchen

DCP licenses cottage food. Local health licenses restaurants. Connecticut DCP licenses cottage food. A commissary or food establishment is permitted by the local health department, not DCP cottage food.
